The vineyards ... situated on a high, exposed ridge in the southwestern Barossa Valley, boast unique terroirs. It's tough country – dry and challenging - with ancient low yielding soils characterized by shattered shale and limestone based rock. These free draining soils, the site elevation and frequent spring and summer winds produce fruit of the highest quality.

The wine ... a friendly union of four varieties, is deep purple. A lifted, complex aroma of black fruits, chocolate and spices precedes the fleshy, warm palate of spice and herb flavours. Firm dusty tannins contribute to a savoury, dry finish. This affable wine, eminently suited to Mediterranean cuisines is oak matured for 12 months. Drink now to five years.
